

Consultancy Package “PLM Compass”

We will show you the way: Use our experience for your PLM roadmap

Efficient product development processes require efficient PLM solutions! A goal-oriented strategy is essential in order to reach an optimal PLM solution – in other words – “think big - start smart”, so that you support your product development process with homogenous IT structures and not a patchwork of solutions.

With our consultancy package PLM Compass we will show you the way! Our experienced consultants will work together with you to analyze existing processes, systems and organization. We will determine weak points and identify areas with potential for improvement. We always take a holistic and unbiased approach in regards to your requirements when we develop concrete solutions and recommendations and consequently create the basis for your PLM roadmap.

Current Situation

- ❖ The product development is supported by IT that is essentially a patchwork of numerous systems and applications, which are often not suited for their purpose.
- ❖ Systems and applications are insufficiently integrated or not integrated at all.
- ❖ Different offices at different locations work with different IT solutions.
- ❖ Processes, systems and organization are subject to continuous change, so that they can meet the increasing requirements for an efficient product creation.
- ❖ Modern products are becoming increasingly complex (mechatronics, variants).
- ❖ There is a rising demand for integration into customer and supplier processes.
- ❖ There is a constant requirement for transparency and measurability in product development.

Crucial Questions

- ❖ Can the current PLM landscape perform sufficiently regarding processes, systems and organization?
- ❖ Can it be used to guarantee globally standardized processes and methods?
- ❖ Are project organization and project roles sufficiently supported in their daily work?
- ❖ Can a measurable and standardized result of the development processes be fully reproduced?
- ❖ Is it possible to react flexibly to different requirements of product sectors and business sectors using modular concepts?
- ❖ Is global support ensured?

Reach your goal quickly and reliably using the “PLM Compass”

By using the PLM Compass, our experienced consultants employ a procedure that provides them with a toolkit of tried-and-tested methods and best practices. It will help you find your customized PLM roadmap quickly, reliably and in high quality.
